VEB2023 may also use a third party as a processor for achieving the usage purpose of the Recordings. The activities of these third parties are limited to works on visual materials necessary to achieve the purpose of the processing, they do not process or record the personal data themselves, but use them for operations as instructed by VEB2023 (e.g. video creation, cutting, editing).

The VEB2023 newsletter is expected to be sent from the end of 2022. For the sending of newsletters, VEB2023 may use a processor, whose identity will be communicated to the data subjects in an appropriate manner after such processor has been selected and the appropriate data processing agreement has been concluded.

5. DATA SUBJECTS' RIGHTS IN RELATION TO THIS PROCESSING

5.1. Right of access

Pursuant to Article 15 of the GDPR, you have the right to request information from the Data Controllers at any time on whether and how your personal data are processed, including the purposes of the data processing, the recipients to whom the data have been disclosed or the source from which the data were obtained by the Data Controllers, the retention period, any of your rights in relation to the processing and, in the case of transfers to third countries or international organisations, information on the safeguards relating thereto.

In exercising your right of access, you also have the right to request a copy of the data as follows:

- The right to request a copy must not adversely affect the rights and freedoms of others, i.e. if other data subjects are identifiable in the Recording, the Data Controller will take technical measures (such as image editing, including obscuring or blurring) to protect the rights of third parties.
- If your request is excessive or manifestly unfounded, the Data Controller may charge you a reasonable fee under Article 12(5)(a) of the GDPR or refuse to act on your request (Article 12(5)(b) of the GDPR).

5.2. Right to rectification

Pursuant to Article 16 of the GDPR, the Data Controller will rectify or complete personal data concerning you at your request.

5.3. Right to erasure ('right to be forgotten')

Under Article 17 of the GDPR, if you request the erasure of your personal data, the Data Controller will erase them without undue delay:

- If they are no longer necessary for the purpose for which they were originally stored or if the processing is unlawful,
- If you withdraw your consent and there is no other legal basis for the processing.
- In terms of the Recordings, if you exercise your right to object and there are no overriding compelling legitimate grounds for the processing.

The data cannot be erased if the processing is required for any of the following:

- a) for exercising the right of freedom of expression and information;
- b) for compliance with a legal obligation which requires processing of the personal data by Union or Member State law to which the controller is subject;
- c) for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims.

5.4. Right to restriction of processing

You may request restriction of the processing of your personal data on the basis of Article 18 of the GDPR in the following cases:

- The processing is unlawful, but you oppose the erasure of the personal data and request the restriction of their use instead;
- The Data Controller no longer needs the personal data for the purposes of the processing, but they are required by you for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims.

5.5. Right to data portability

You have the right under Article 20 of the GDPR to receive the personal data concerning you that you have provided to the Data Controller and also to have those data transmitted directly by the Data Controller to another data controller, provided that the legal basis for the processing is your consent.

5.6. The right to object

Pursuant to Article 21 of the GDPR, if the legal basis for the processing of your data is the legitimate interest of the Data Controller or a third party (Article 6(1)(f) of the GDPR), you have the right to object to the processing. The Data Controller is not obliged to uphold the objection if they prove that there are compelling legitimate grounds for the processing which override your interests, rights and freedoms or that the processing is connected to the establishment, exercise or defence of the legal claims of the Data Controller.

5.7. Right to make a complaint, right to legal remedy

If you consider that the processing of your personal data by the Data Controller infringes the provisions of the currently effective data protection legislation, in particular the GDPR, you have the right to lodge a complaint with the competent data protection supervisory authority. In Hungary, complaints can be filed with the Hungarian National Authority for Data Protection and Freedom of Information ("NAIH").
